Dear Parents and Carers

At Buxton Infant School we love reading and want to do as much as we can to promote reading for pleasure. This half term we are running a competition in each class to see who can bring in a photo of themselves reading a book in the most unusual place or with the most unusual person. For example you could take a book out with you on a walk and take a photo reading it up a tree. You could take one if you go on an interesting day out during half term or you could find a special person to read with and take a selfie.

All you need to do is print out your photo and hand it in to your class teacher by Wednesday 13th November. We'll share everyone's photos with the class during the week and we'll display them in the book corner. There will be a small prize for the best entry from each class and Mrs Boyd will award these in assembly.

Please come and ask if you would like any more information. Looking forward to seeing some interesting photos!
